The Wild Wild West

As with most robbers, one big haul is never enough. Everyone knows of the notorious Jesse James and the James Gang. They committed their very first train robbery in Adair, Iowa on July, 21 1873. They liberated approximately $2,337.00 from the Rock Island Line Passenger train No. 2. This was not, however their first robbery, nor was it even close to some of their previous "earnings". Their first robbery is believed to have occurred some seven years earlier. The take from the Liberty, Missouri, Clay County Savings Association may have been in the vicinity of $62,000.00. It is likely that prior to the Adair, Iowa robbery The James Gang had already taken in over $100,000.00 in a number of bank robberies.

As "lowly" a take as the Rock Island Line may have been, it was the start of a very lucrative operation for the James Gang. Things started getting better with their next train robbery. About six months later on January 31, 1874 they hit the Iron Mountain Railroad in Gad's Hill, Missouri for about $12,000.00. Later robberies netted much higher numbers. December 8, 1874, the Kansas Pacific in Muncie, Kansas gained them roughly $55,000.00. July 7, 1876 the Missouri Pacific in Rockley Cut, Missouri, $15,000.00. October 8, 1879 the Chicago and Alton in Glendale, Missouri, $40,000.00. They even had to hit the Rock Island Line one more time on July 15, 1881 in Winston, Missouri, again for only about $2,000.00. Other than the Rock Island, it is easy to see why the lure of the railroads kept the James Gang in business robbing trains for nearly a decade.
