ENTITLEMENT

On February 25th the CN (Canadian National) filed an appeal in Federal Court challenging the Surface Transportation Board's (STB) decision that the CN must pay from 67% to 78% of the costs to upgrade two overpasses, one in Aurora and another near the Illinois/Indiana border. This percentage is the amount the STB mandated as necessary to approve the CN's purchase of the EJ&E (Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway Company). The CN feels they should not have to pay more than 5% - 10% of these costs based on past precedence.

In other words, since they have sucked the taxpayers dry before to boost their bottom line, why not do it again? Since the STB's approval was required for the purchase to occur, the CN obviously knew about the requirement, but yet they went ahead and made the deal. They now are looking to make an end run around it. Much like politics, the culture of "doing business as usual" is rampant in the railroads.

Once a robber baron.....
